A potato chip is a thin slice of potato that has been deep fried or baked until crunchy. Potato chips are commonly 41 as an appetizer, side dish, or snack. Rumor has it that the potato chip was invented by a chef 42 George Crum. In 1853, Crum, a half black, half Native American cook, worked at a vacation resort in Saratoga Springs, New York. One day, a customer kept sending his French fries back, 43 that they were too thick. Crum made some more, but the customer still wasn't 44. Frustrated, Crum finally sliced a potato as thin as possible, fried them until crisp and seasoned them with extra salt. To his 45, the picky customer was very happy and demanded more. Potato chips were therefore invented!

四、閱讀測驗【請依照段落上下文意，選出最適當的答案】

There are different types of needs that elderly people have. Emotional needs often include requiring companionship. Many elderly people are very lonely, especially after the death of their partner. They enjoy company and appreciate it when people take time to talk to them.

The financial needs of elderly people are met in a number of ways. Many elderly people receive the state retirement pension, but many have other sources of income. Some have a work pension and others have taken out insurance policies, which may provide them with a good income when they retire. Others have substantial savings. Some elderly people rely on their children to give them financial help when they are old.

Elderly people make big demands on the National Health Service. They see their doctor more frequently than other groups and are given many more prescriptions. They also take up a large number of hospital beds for acute and chronic conditions. Acute conditions can be treated. Chronic conditions will never be cured, but efforts can be made to make an older person more "comfortable." There is a growing number of older people in the population, so this has implications for funding our health care services.

Elderly people have specific housing needs. Depending on the health and the mobility of an older person, these can be met in a number of ways, such as adaptations to existing housing, purpose built retirement flats, sheltered housing, and residential homes, which are a combination of hotel and hospital, where old people are given care and attention twenty four hours a day.

Sheltered housing with small flats and a help station is thought to be the best housing option for older people. The flats are designed to meet the needs of elderly people, with grab rails, alarms and an emergency contact system to call the station. There is usually a communal area for entertainment. Sheltered housing allows the old person to retain considerable independence but also means that help and company are never far away.

- 【4】46. What is the main idea of the passage?
① Sheltered housing is thought of as the best housing option for elderly people.
② Sheltered housing allows old people to have considerable independence.
③ Elderly people are spending too much funding for health care services.
④ Elderly people have emotional, financial, medical and housing needs.
- 【3】47. According to the passage, which of the following is NOT one of the ways to meet elderly people's financial needs?
① The state retirement pension. ② Work pensions.
③ Political donations. ④ Personal savings.
- 【2】48. Which of the following is NOT one of the reasons that elderly people make big demands on the National Health Service?
① They see doctors more often. ② Their acute and chronic conditions can be treated and cured.
③ They take up a large number of hospital beds. ④ They are given more prescriptions.
- 【4】49. Which of the following is designed for elderly people who need care all day long?
① Adaptations to existing housing. ② Purpose-built retirement flats.
③ Five-star hotel. ④ Residential homes.
- 【4】50. Which of the following best summarizes the reason why sheltered housing is considered the best housing option for older people?
① It has flats specially designed to meet the needs of elderly people.
② A warden is in charge of regular and emergency needs of elderly people.
③ There is a communal area for entertainment.
④ It gives elderly people independence and help and company are close by.
