一、翻譯：（25分）

(一)英譯中：請將下列英文譯為中文。（12分）

Extensive research suggests that empty threats neither damage a state's global credibility nor create pressures forcing it to follow through on those threats. Though questions of credibility are still debated by political scientists, history is littered with examples of false threats conveniently ignored.

During the Cold War, the Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev repeatedly threatened to seize West Berlin. But Soviet actions betrayed his threats as empty, allowing Washington and Moscow to quietly sidestep the risk of war in Germany. He never felt politically forced to invade. And few doubted Soviet credibility a few months later when Moscow tried to install nuclear weapons in Cuba — an action that spoke louder and more clearly than any of Khrushchev's words.

That is the real lesson of the Cuban missile crisis.

(二)中譯英：請將下列中文譯為英文。（13分）

大多數的談判涉及價值觀的主張和創造兩個層面，這項事實引起了這兩種策略與談判過程的人際層面之間的緊張關係。談判通常不會是完全屬於競爭性質的，因為如此一來將無法產生結果或達成協議。另一方面，沒有任何談判是完全屬於合作性質的，至少會有某種些微的競爭，主要是因為你需要設定明顯可能與對手不同的優先考慮事項和目標。正如 Gallucci 博士於 2002 年 2 月的採訪中所言：「所以首要之務就是弄清楚優先事項，了解什麼是根本的利益，如果有根本利益的話，明白什麼是目標。最好能知道你在國際體系中的脈絡，誰可能站在你這邊，誰不可能。那是最重要的事情。」

二、英文作文：請根據下面的指示，寫出一篇大約 350 字的短文。（50 分）

Read the excerpt below carefully and think about the assignment that follows.

The diplomatic (re)making of the world involves two layers, “order as value” and “order as fact.” What is less clear, however, is what kind of diplomatic processes and instruments can help remake the world for the “better”? For some, peaceful international orders cannot emerge without diplomats systematically addressing the deep causes of international conflict such as endemic poverty, global health disparities, undemocratic governance or lack of opportunities for human development. For others, these represent legitimate and ambitious goals but hardly feasible given the sheer complexity of the issues and the practical difficulties of mobilizing broad coalitions of actors and institutions in support of long-term projects. There is no easy formula to reconcile these two views. Short- and long-term priorities obviously need to be set, but the nature of these priorities remains a subject of intense debate.

–Corneliu Bjola and Markus Kornprobst. Understanding International Diplomacy: Theory, Practice and Ethics.

Assignment: Based on the excerpt, what is the essential difference between the two views on the role of diplomats in creating peaceful international orders? Do you agree with Corneliu Bjola and Markus Kornprobst that there exists “no easy formula to reconcile the two views”? In your opinion, what kind of diplomatic processes and instruments can help improve the world? Compose an essay in which you express your views on this topic. Your essay may support, refute, or qualify the views expressed in the excerpt. What you write, however, must be relevant to the topic under discussion. Additionally, you must support your position with reasoning and examples taken from your reading, studies, experience, or observations.

Jeanne Dixon was a woman famous for her unique ability to peer into the future. She began making predictions when she was a little girl and she had made many predictions 1 her life. The one that brought her the most fame was her prediction of the 2 of President Kennedy. In 1952, Dixon had a 3. She saw a man with blue eyes living in the White House who was going to die a violent death. Eight years later, John Kennedy, a man with blue eyes, became President of the United States. On November 22, 1963, Jeanne told her friends, "Something terrible is going to happen today." Then, they heard an announcement—President Kennedy was shot. Dixon 4 predicted the death of several celebrities, and she also successfully predicted other kinds of events, like a big earthquake in Alaska in 1964. Her predictions were not always correct, but people don't seem to remember them. Dixon didn't keep any fee she earned from making predictions. 5, she donated all the money to a charity that supported educational and health projects for children. Dixon died in 1997, and she left behind several predictions which could still come true.

請依下文回答第 16 題至第 20 題

Heartburn is a painful burning feeling in your chest or throat. It happens when stomach acid backs up into your esophagus, the tube that carries food from your mouth to your stomach. This discomfort may spread in waves upward into your throat, and you may have a sour taste in your mouth. Heartburn is sometimes called indigestion, acid regurgitation, sour stomach, or pyrosis. It is not caused by problems with your heart, although sometimes heart problems can feel like heartburn.

Heartburn usually is worse after eating or made worse by lying down or bending over. It gets better if you stand up. Almost everyone will have troubles with heartburn now and then. Heartburn occurs more frequently in adults than in children. Symptoms of heartburn and symptoms of a heart attack may feel the same. Sometimes your heartburn symptoms may mean a more serious problem and need to be checked by your doctor.

Causes of dyspepsia can vary from minor to serious. Heartburn occurs when food and stomach juices back up (reflux) into the esophagus, which is the tube that leads from the throat to the stomach. This process is called gastroesophageal reflux. Common causes of reflux include:

- (1) Incomplete closing of the valve (the lower esophageal sphincter, or LES) between the esophagus and the stomach.
- (2) Foods and drinks, such as chocolate, peppermint, fried foods, fatty foods, sugars, coffee, carbonated drinks, and alcohol. After heartburn occurs, the backflow of stomach juices can cause the esophagus to become sensitive to other foods, such as citrus fruits, tomatoes, spicy foods, garlic, and onions. Eating these foods may cause more heartburn.
- (3) Pressure on the stomach caused by frequent bending over and lifting, tight clothes, straining with bowel movements, vigorous exercise, and pregnancy.
- (4) Smoking and use of other tobacco products.
- (5) Prescription and non-prescription medicines, such as aspirin, ibuprofen, prednisone, iron, potassium, antihistamines, and sleeping pills.

The treatment of heartburn depends on how severe your heartburn is and what other symptoms you have. Home treatment measures and medicines that you can buy without a prescription usually will relieve mild to moderate heartburn. It is important to see your doctor if heartburn occurs frequently and home treatment does not relieve your symptoms.
